Marion, O. — While the nation, through its recognized leaders, was paying official respect to the memory of Warren G. Harding at Washington Wednesday, the late president's home folks and neighbors continued their plans for the final simple funeral services here Friday afternoon.

Simplicity approaching severeness will characterize the last rites here. This is the wish of Mrs. Harding. There will be no military display, and nothing of the "official" about the services here.

When the body arrives here about 9 A. M. central time, Thursday from Washington it will be taken immediately to the home of Dr. George T. Harding, the president's father. From 2 until 10 P. M. Thursday and again from 9 A. M. until 1 P. M. the following day, Ohioans will be given a last opportunity to view the face of their friend and leader.

Thenon Friday afternoon, without military pomp the body will be tenderly borne from the home to the cemetery where brief and simple funeral services, conducted by local ministers, will be held. First in the funeral procession following the hearse will come members of the Harding family, then the president of the United States, members of the cabinet, and other high officials, and then Mr. Harding's friends and neighbors.

EVERYONE WELCOME
Everyone wishing to do so has been invited by direction of Mrs. Harding to take part in the funeral procession. It is Mrs. Harding's wish that those who knew her husband best—the folks from Ohio, shall have a part in the funeral program.

Following the brief ceremony at the cemetery, the body of President Harding will be entombed. The home folks will disperse and President Coolidge and his official party, together with Mrs. Harding, will return to Washington. The only reminder that the body of a president of the United States lies entombed in Marion, will be the military guard which will be maintained at the tomb for the customary six months' period.

The simple funeral services here promise to be a gathering of the thousands of Mr. Harding's friends from all over Ohio. Marion is full in anticipation of Friday's funeral, and thousands are planning to arrive Thursday and Friday morning.

So great will be the crowd, the state officials have arranged to patrol all roads for miles leading into Marion, in an effort to prevent automobile accidents. Many special trains will bring large delegations of Ohioans while nearly every city of any size in the state will send special representatives.

Among those having a prominent place at the funeral service will be Ohio newspaper publishers who are members of the Associated Ohio Dailies, an organization in which Mr. Harding, as publisher of the Marion Star, took an active part. The editors will gather at the Marion club early Friday afternoon and go to the Harding home in a body.

BUSINESS WILL CEASE
All business activity will cease in Marion Friday. Stores and business places will remain closed throughout the day. The Marion Star, for years owned and published by Mr. Harding, and his wife, will suspend publication for the day in order that the employees may take part in the last rites over Mr. Harding's body.

Printers, editors, reporters, office employees, and newsmen who worked with Mr. Harding on the Star for years will have a prominent place in the funeral procession.

Although there will be no military pomp in connection with the funeral procession or the funeral services at the cemetery, three thousand Ohio National Guard troops will arrive Wednesday to preserve order and direct the heavy traffic. One field hospital company will care for visitors who may be overcome by the excessively hot and sultry weather prevailing here.

The vault in which President Harding's body will be placed will be guarded by state troops until Monday. Then for the six month period, a detail of an officer and from 20 to 35 privates of the regular army from Fort Hayes, at Columbus, will stand the death watch pending construction of a mausoleum.

SEVERSON SAYS
BLAINE SHOULD
RESIGN OFFICEIola Senator Will Make Specific Charges When Governor
Returns To Madison

By Associated Press

Madison—The controversy between Senator H. J. Severson, Iola and Governor Blaine, over the charge of Senator Severson that women had been assaulted by officials in locked capitol offices, will be renewed August 27, when the governor returns from his vacation, the senator announced Wednesday. He declared that this delay had been requested by Governor Blaine.

Senator Severson said that he would specifically ask that a special session of the legislature be called to investigate charges that he expects to enumerate. He declared that as yet he had not considered taking his charge to a grand jury in the Dane county circuit court. They are too numerous and varied to be subjected to a court investigation, he said.

"If Governor Blaine is afraid or unwilling to investigate conditions that have grown up in state departments under his administration, he should resign," Senator Severson said. "I intend to ask that he either expose himself in favor of an investigation or admit that conditions are such that he should resign as governor."

The senator said that he intends to outline some of the cases involving state officials and women that he has in mind. He said that the governor in a newspaper interview had admitted that one instance of a state official being involved with a woman in the capitol had been called to his attention by a capitol policeman.

JEALOUSY MOTIVE
OF TRIPLE DEATHMan, 70, Wife 58, And "Other Woman" 63, Found Shot
To Death

By Associated Press

Battle Creek, Mich.—Police Wednesday are seeking to learn more of the strange love affair which they believe is at the bottom of the killing Tuesday of Mrs. R. H. Stewart, 58, and Mrs. Ella Wells 63, and the suicide of John H. Wells, 70.

Jealousy, they think, prompted Wells to kill Mrs. Stewart whose body was found Tuesday night in a clump of bushes ten miles from the city several hours after police had found the bodies of Wells and his wife in their apartment here. A revolver still held in Wells' hand indicated he had shot his wife and then turned the gun upon himself.

Mrs. Stewart was last seen leaving her home in an automobile with an elderly man.

Wells came here two years ago from Oklahoma. He was reputed to be wealthy.

PARDON DENIED TO MILWAUKEE YOUTH

Madison—Governor Blaine denied a pardon to Glenway Maxon, wealthy Milwaukee society youth, serving five years at the Green Bay reformatory on conviction for manslaughter. Following is the statement accompanying the executive action:

"The stay of execution, of his sentence was terminated Feb. 6 last, and he was released. In trying to pass another car he collided with a motorcycle going in the opposite direction. He drove two blocks further and stopped at a club but did not go back to the scene of the accident. The man driving the motorcycle was killed. Maxon was convicted by a jury. Appeal was taken to the Supreme court. His case was ably defended and I find no reason why the sentence should be disturbed. He having the opportunity to procure his release through parole in November, at which time he is eligible to parole, I find no justification for executive clemency."

20 Cases In Whisky Raid

Chicago—Four bandits in an automobile late Tuesday night drove up to the freight house of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad here, disarmed the watchman, and escaped with twenty cases of whisky, although fired on by an officer who surprised them police said Wednesday.

While a policeman was emptying his revolver at two of the bandits fleeing with the liquor in an automobile, the other pair in the building made their escape through a tunnel. Later two men were arrested and held as suspects.

The liquor was said to have been consigned to a Milwaukee concern.

Policeman Peter Madigan who attempted to capture the pair who fled with the liquor, believes he wounded one, who, he said, crumpled in his seat.

KENOSHA SHOOTING
REMAINS MYSTERY

Kenosha—Mrs. Adrian McGuire, the wife of a well known citizen and former member of county board, was found in a room at her home Tuesday morning with a 32 calibre bullet in her left side. Police believed that it was a case of attempted suicide but admitted considerable mystery surrounding the shooting. It was reported that the woman had been shot by a boy who was playing with a revolver, but later it was said that Mrs. McGuire had been accidentally shot. At the hospital it was said that her condition was critical.

Blaine Calls On State
To Observe Mourning

Madison—A proclamation issued Wednesday by Governor J. J. Blaine called upon the people of the state to stop from their work at three o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, August 10, during the funeral of the late President Harding. The governor directed that all departments of the government be closed on Friday.

Following is the proclamation in full:

"The people of Wisconsin, in common with the people of the United States, were stricken with grief and sorrow on the announcement of the death of our late president, Warren Gamaliel Harding.

"While on a visitation of the United States, endeavoring to carry to the people his ideals and aspirations for America, the physical task was so strenuous that he broke under the burden and succumbed to the grim reaper of death.

"Our people possess a deep sympathy for those who suffer in his death a personal loss, and as we bow before the power of death our people realize his loss to our nation.

"In respect to the memory of the illustrious life and in acknowledgment of his sacrifice, and in accordance with the proclamation of the President of the United States,

"I recommend that at the hour of three o'clock in the afternoon of Friday, August 10, 1923, the time set apart for the funeral services, the people of the state assemble in their respective places of worship or other convenient places, to join in ceremonies fitting to the mournful occasion, and to supplicate divine mercy upon our stricken nation.

"I further recommend that upon all public buildings—school, local, county and state—the flag remain at half mast until the close of the day of the funeral.

"In token of respect I hereby direct that the flag on all state public buildings remain at half staff until the close of Monday, September 3, 1923, and that all offices of the various departments of state government be closed on Friday, August 10th."

Los Angeles, Cal.—Frustration of plans to rob the Los Angeles vaults of the American Express company by shipping a man into them in a box has been disclosed by police. The plot was broken up by the arrest of three alleged conspirators, the police announced Tuesday.

The man was actually inside the vaults, but when two arrests had been made others of the gang went to the express company and demanded and received the box, according to the police.

Detectives said they were searching for Charles Drebnau, who was arrested three years ago after having himself carried in a trunk to a warehouse of a Hollywood transfer company. Drebnau recently was paroled after serving two years of a five year sentence at San Quentin for that offense.

Coolidge Is Inscrutable. Neither Asking Nor Giving Confidences, Never Betraying His Emotions

Washington—President Coolidge realized today that events over which he had no control are carrying him forward to a crisis in his administration.

As the cards are laid upon the table today, there will be a cessation of work in the anthracite fields of the country on Sept. 1—a little more than three weeks away. The wage agreement expires at midnight, August 31. Efforts to negotiate a new agreement recently were broken off.

While it will not be so termed by the mine workers, the cessation of mining will be a strike, in effect, in purpose, and in the popular conception of the man in the street.

Calvin Coolidge is perfectly conscious of the fact that millions of the people of the United States who suffered from a coal shortage last winter, will look to him for protection from another winter of hardships and unhappiness. He knows that particularly the people of his own New England, who were the keenest sufferers of the past winter will look to him for relief.

It will be of no avail to say that the powers of a president are limited, no matter how true that statement may be. The people realize there are constitutional and other legal limitations placed upon every public official. But they also believe that a president

Washington — A swelling tide of honors bore Warren Harding Wednesday back over the road by which he came triumphant to the presidency two crowded years ago.

For him the urge of ambition was ended, the compelling call of duty stilled in death. And the tens of thousands of his silent countrymen grouped along the way, he passed in such state as only the great dead of the nation may know. And beyond the brief hour of the ceremony of sorrow there awaited for him eternal rest in the soil that gave him birth.

Down the wide avenue he was carried Wednesday with marching legions tramping ahead to lay him under the dome of the capitol while he goes back to his native state to stay forever. That high resolve of duty had brought him death and with it the peace and quiet he loved, but which he could set aside at the nation's call. With Eershing riding ahead, the marching thousands of the escort led the way, the steel of their bayonets glittering above them. Soldiers, sailors, marines and citizen soldiers were there, and behind them came the new president still, bowed and weary, that his high office came at such a price. Came also two men who before him had held that office, one to be stricken like himself and so crippled in illness that he might not give himself as he would to the sorrowful duty of the day. Behind those, in endless array, marched the great body of American citizenry and the men who kept the wheels of a great government moving in the huge, silent building about.

BANDS PLAY HYMNS
Military bands interspersed in the columns, played the old, old hymns that stir and comfort. The hush and dim mystery of Tuesday night when the flag-draped casket came to its brief space of quiet in the White House was here. But there was no sound or movement in the great crowd that lined the way until that faithful burden in its colorful glorious bunting had been carried on by silent wheels to be lifted to the catafalque in the great stone chamber of the capitol rotunda.

There, in keeping with the simplicity of the man who lay dead, the funeral services were brief, impressive and nature. Afterward in its place of honor beneath the dome, the body was to lie until midnight while thousands upon thousands filed past the bier with bent, uncovered heads to bid farewell to the upright, kindly man so soon to leave Washington forever. It was a few minutes past 10 o'clock when the great procession of sorrow swung out from the White House gates to begin its pilgrimage up the historic avenue where so many other long caravans of grief and of rejoicing, or regret and of triumph, had preceded it in years gone by.

BLAME ARROGANCE OF TOURISTS FOR HIGHWAY WRECKS

Foreign Drivers, Speeding Thru States, Disregard Road Laws

Automobile drivers of Appleton, many of them at least, are complaining of the "road hog" tendency which is being cultivated by tourists passing through this section of the state. Driving is difficult at best in the heavy traffic on the concrete highways and on the roads leading to the lake country in the north but the difficulty is augmented by the effort of tourists to "hog" more than their share of the road.

Several serious accidents have been reported recently because of this tendency. Drivers here are accustomed to half of the road and they don't ask more, but hundreds of visitors are making a practice of driving with their left wheels on the black mark which divides the concrete highway, and of remaining almost in the center of the gravel and dirt roads, forcing cars approaching from the other direction to get off the road. This has resulted in accidents and one or two fatalities.

A few days ago an Appleton driver was forced off the road by a tourist who refused to get out of the center of the road and almost caused an accident. The tourist, driving at a high rate of speed, did not stop to see what happened to the man forced into the ditch. Another Appleton driver complains that a Michigan car cut in ahead of him so sharply that the rear fender of the foreign machine caught the front fender of his local machine, almost causing him to run into the ditch. The Michigan man looked back and then "stepped on the gas" to get out before his number could be taken.

Everytime motorists get together they tell of unpleasant experiences with tourists. There was a time when the out of state visitor was welcomed to Wisconsin, when the folks here couldn't do enough for them, but of late there has been a feeling that the tourist, by his arrogance, and his tendency to disregard the rights of folks who provide the splendid roads here, is wearing out his welcome. It would not be surprising, motorists say, if stringent rules regulating travel on the highways resulted from the high-handed method used by motorists complained of.

JOHN F. PALM GETS HEROISM MEDAL

Telephone Company Rewards Him For Rescuing Drowning Boy

John F. Palm, whose home is at 1063 North Division-st. is one of six Wisconsin Telephone company workers to be given a medal for acts of heroism performed on duty during the year 1922.

Palm, who is a line foreman working with a crew out of the central office at Milwaukee, was presented with the medal by W. R. McGovern, president of the company for saving a boy from drowning in the Rock river at Beloit on Feb. 26, 1922.

While working on a pole near the river, Palm heard the cry of a boy who tried to cross the river but broke through the thin ice. Climbing down from the pole he seized a hampline and threw it around the person's shoulders and drew him ashore.

The medal, awarded yearly, is provided by the Theodore N. Vail memorial fund, established in 1920 after the death of Mr. Vail, president of the Bell system.

Others to be awarded hero medals are Rudolph W. Gauthier, Eau Claire; John W. Mortenson, South Milwaukee; Emmett R. Brown, Burlington; all for saving lives; and Helen H. Woods, Bayfield, and Helen Beckler of North Freedom, for maintaining at their posts in times of danger.

Seasonable Furs

The marked scarcity of fur skins and the unprecedented demand for fashionable fur garments, both summer and winter models, have led to the production of inferior grades of garments which are advertised for low prices. The buyer is warned against investing in this class of furs, and we would offer a word of advice. The only way to secure the full value of your money is to buy from a house which tells you just what kind of fur you are getting and its reasonable market value.

This house stands for square dealing in every department of the fur industry, and it also stands for the latest designs in every kind of fur garments.

FISHING QUARTET LOST IN DARK ON RAT RIVER

To be moored in the morasses of Rat river was the experience of a quartet of Appleton fishermen Monday night. It was the uncomfortable end of a perfect day. Because the bass and perch were biting so well, Walter Smith, Herman Diederich, Leo Toonen and William Drexler stayed on the water too long and when darkness overtook them, they lost their way. The boat was finally caught in a marsh where they remained until 1 o'clock. A farmer heard their shouts for help and towed them ashore.

Large Class Will Be Initiated When New Clubhouse Is Dedicated

All captains acting on the building fund drive for the Loyal Order of Moose are to meet at Moose hall at 7:30 Saturday evening and turn in the cards bearing the names of members who were to be solicited. Other matters of routine business were taken up at the bi-monthly meeting at Pythian-Moose hall Monday evening. Preliminary plans were made for the membership drive to secure a large class to be initiated at the time of the dedication of the new building. This class of candidates will be known as the dedication class. Earl Bates will head the drive as general chairman.

A report was made on the Royal American shows which showed under Moose auspices a short time ago. E. Scherck, 105 Second-st. Fond du Lac, was announced as the one who was given the diamond ring on the last night of the attraction.

Announcement of the date of appearance of the Mooseheart concert band in Appleton will be made in the near future. The band is composed of students at Mooseheart, Ill. Efforts are being made to secure a date for the latter part of the month.

CRICKETS ARE PLAYING ROLE OF JOY KILLERS

Now that winter is almost here again, following the customary six weeks of summer, rural mail carriers can begin worrying about the big snowdrifts on the roads as predicted by rural weather prophets. The weather barometer this time is the presence of a large number of crickets. Every time a farmer lifts up a board from the ground he finds a clan, or drove, or school, or whatever it is, of crickets. It is an unfailing sign of much snow for the coming winter, some farmers predict.

HOME INVESTMENT OF BANKS' MONEY IS URGED BY STATE

Commissioner Parker Warns Local Institutions Against Speculation

Investments by state banks should be made "at home to the people of the local community," Dwight T. Parker, commissioner of banking and finance, in a letter sent to the institutions under his regulation, copies of which were received by the local banks. He advised against speculative ventures, and points to the fact that by a conservative policy the banks of Wisconsin rank second in the nation for the low number of permanent closures.

Commissioner Parker said in addressing himself to the bankers that "when possible, and rarely it will be otherwise, your money should be loaned to the people of your own community. I refer now more particularly to the rural bankers whose loaning power is small."

HELPS HOME MAN

"By so doing local interests are advanced in the building up of the town and assisting farmers and merchants who in turn are depositors, the ones who are aiding in the building of the bank. In so loaning, money is being kept at home where it was created and where it rightfully belongs."

"Millions of dollars are lost annually to the banks of Wisconsin through the purchase of speculative securities. Outside investments should never appeal to you. Bonds and notes offered by promoters and agents, unless they and the company they represent are known to be responsible and reputable, ought never to receive consideration. It would be highly advisable to confine all your loans whether real or personal, to Wisconsin."

NOT TOO MANY BANKS

"Another matter I wish to touch upon is that of the organization of additional banks and loan associations coming under the supervision of this department. While I fully realize the necessity and convenience of these institutions in various sections of the state for the purpose of financing their affairs and meeting community requirements, I shall undertake to see to it that the thing is not overdone."

"Chief concern will be the proper functioning and welfare of financial institutions already created rather than the organization of more of them. Requesting of banking privileges as personal favors, regardless of local requirements, will never have my approval."

"Apprentice endangering solvency of banks is that of its officers borrowing its funds for their individual use. No active official of a bank has the moral right, nor should have the legal right, to appropriate depositors' and stockholders' money, either directly or indirectly, for his personal benefit. Any banker violating this policy is pursuing a dangerous course, and while he may escape disaster, he is nevertheless headed in that direction, since the large majority of bank failures are traceable directly to such practice."

TEACHERS TO CAMP DURING STATE FAIR

The Misses Eva Little, Sophia Bunkleman, Marie Killian and Florence Keating, teachers of Outagamie schools, will take advantage of the special offer to teachers in the teachers' camp at the state fair at Milwaukee Aug. 27 to Sept. 1.

It is expected that more teachers will announce their intention of going. Reservations are to be made with A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, before the middle of next week, as he must certify the names of the applicants.

Last year quite a number of teachers attended the teachers' camp at the state fair. The camp is in session all week and provides meals and lodging on the fair grounds at a nominal cost. An instructive course will be offered each forenoon by Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones of the home economics department, University of Wisconsin. The expense, it is understood, will be in the neighborhood of $7 for each teacher.

LOST HIS GAS TANK AFTER CAR COLLISION

John W. VanAlstyne of Appleton had an unusual experience while on his way to Marinette. His car was in motion when a tourist car crashed into the rear, wrecking the bumper and one fender and otherwise damaging the machine.

After a hasty examination of the damage, Mr. VanAlstyne continued on his journey and in pulling up at a filling station for gasoline was advised there was no gas tank on his car. It had dropped off after the accident.

He retraced his way, recovered the tank and returned to the filling station on the contents of the vacuum tank.

SHEBOYGAN TROUT IS RECORD BREAKER

Ten-pound German Brown Variety Is Pulled From Near-by Waters

The fish that Appleton Knights of the rod and reel have been casting for all these years has been caught by a Sheboygan man in a stream near the Sheboygan-Fond du Lac line.

What is claimed as the world's record trout was caught by Harry McNeill last week. It is a German brown trout 23½ inches long, weighing 10 pounds and 3 ounces and having a girth of 16½ inches.

In response to a telegram of inquiry, the editor of "Field and Stream" said that the record brown trout heretofore was 10 pounds. McNeill is entitled to several trophies as a result of his catch. Last year he won a trophy for hooking a trout weighing 10 pounds and 7 ounces, the largest reported during the year. The world leader taken last week has been sent away to be mounted.

ON THE SCREEN

DOG TRIES TO RESCUE "DROWN-ING" MISTRESS

An animal is a truer friend than many human beings, in the opinion of Marguerite de la Motte.

Miss de la Motte has a prize Alre-dale. Recently during the filming of the Thomas H. Ince feature, "Scars of Jealousy," in which Miss de la Motte plays a leading role, Lambert Hillier, the director, ordered the fair screen player into a bog in a night scene in the hills near Culver City. After all precautions had been taken, Miss de la Motte entered the water, and her cries of distress and the weird lights as the cameras were turned proved too much for Freud, the Alre-dale. He plunged out of the darkness into the swamp, and no less than six property-men secured a drenching trying to capture the animal so that the scene could be shot.

"Scars of Jealousy" is now running at the Elitte theatre.

NOTABLE CAST ENACTS 'DRIVEN' FAMOUS DRAMA

Some of the most prominent stars of the dramatic and screen world interpret the leading roles in "Driven," Charles Brabin-Universal-Jewel feature which is coming to Elitte theatre on Thursday for an engagement of 3 days. There are few sections of the country where the fame of Burr McIntosh has not reached. He is noted as a war correspondent, writer of fiction, dramatic actor, screen artist, and last, but not least as a photographer. There are few persons past thirty who fail to recall the famous Burr McIntosh Magazine, a photographic masterpiece. Charles E. Mack loaned for "Driven" by David Wark Griffith, is well remembered for his work in "Dream Street" and "One Exciting Night."

Then there is Emily Fitzroy, amous character actress in America, England and Australia, and playing the difficult and important role of a Spartan mother in this production, and Elinor Fair, one of the daintiest and most talented actresses of the screen. George Bancroft is famous for his interpretations and is at his best in this picture. Surely a group of names to conjure with.

FOREIGN AUTOS NOT AN UNUSUAL SIGHT NOW

Bright Colors Not In Demand For Stationery

Among the many little things which mark persons as well bred and perfectly confident of what is in good taste is the kind of paper they use in writing business and personal letters. The fact that novelty stationery is not selling as well at the local stores as formerly suggests that people are becoming more considerate of the impression their letters make.

White, soft gray and buff are the tones in stationery which are accepted as correct although white is used by far the most of the three and is often preferred entirely. It is the paper in pink, blue and yellow which jars one's sense of correctness and bespeaks a lack of taste on the part of the user. Novelty stationery with gorgeously decorated edges is classed with the violent colors as are also many of the kinds made with colored and figured linings. A fine touch of gold or silver at the extreme edge of the paper or correspondence cards may be used.

It is surprising how many persons ask for the colored stationery, especially those who want to pay only 50 cents a box for paper, said one dealer. "Those persons buying the cheaper quality colored kind don't care as a rule what they use. The high priced novelty stationery is bought by another class of people who really spend a lot of money on their writing paper. Because it is on use market in so many different varieties they think it must be the thing to use. The fact that much of the novelty paper is made of fine quality material and much of it by hand is an inducement for many persons to buy it.

However at one store the dealer said a number of the companies making high grade stationery have decided to discontinue novelty paper because the demand for it seems to be getting less, and in some cases the merchants cannot sell it. People seem to be putting their money now into white paper of a good quality.

Many people buy paper by the pound and many persons order their paper from cards showing the sizes of the sheets and the quality of the paper. In some cases in ordering expensive paper it is necessary to take five quires.

This last year the fad of having one's monogram or name and address printed or engraved at the top of the sheet and on the lap of the envelope was followed. However, the style has not been extremely popular because most people didn't want to pay the cost of engraving the signature and didn't like it merely printed. Moreover when most persons buy stationery they usually want it at once and don't care to wait two weeks to have a name engraved or printed. Fraternity and sorority crests are popular on stationery but again the cost of having them put on is so great the average person does not care to have it done. The crests are put mostly on the paper to be used by the organizations.

Very few persons buy tablets for use in correspondence although some persons use such paper with stamped envelopes or odd ones.

COLLEGE WORK AT NORMAL DROPPED

When Appleton high school graduates enroll at the Oshkosh normal school or at other normal schools this fall, they will not be able to take the junior college course formerly offered in those institutions.

About a year ago, the board of normal school regents decided to drop the college courses, the action to take effect July 1, 1923. Governor Blaine's veto of a bill to prevent any normal school ever from including in its curriculum any course other than a teachers' training course will have no effect upon the regents' decision.

It will still be possible, however, for students to enter normal schools for two years and then receive credit for work upon entering the state university as a junior. In order to do so, such a student must enroll as a special student.

Another Looks To Appleton As Place To Live

Appleton holds an everlasting lure to people who are looking for an ideal city in which to live. This is shown by the letters that reach the chamber of commerce almost every day from people who have visited here and cannot erase the pleasing impressions they have obtained.

The latest person to have a longing for a home here is R. S. Wiltout of Milwaukee, a manufacturer. He says he and his family are convinced that a moderate sized city is the only desirable place to live. He is eager to get out of Milwaukee and come here.

Mr. Wiltout has asked the chamber of commerce to help him find manufacturing connections that will enable him to change his residence. Secretary Hugh G. Corbett has written him offering all information available.

CALF CLUB BOYS SLEEP OVERNIGHT IN LOCAL ARMORY

Youths From Michigan Due To Arrive By Auto Afternoon Of Aug. 16

Appleton will share liberally in the visitation of Michigan calf club boys to Wisconsin dairying centers Aug. 15 to 25 under auspices of Michigan agricultural college, according to a copy of the complete itinerary received by the chamber of commerce from A. They are to arrive here at 5:30 Thursday afternoon, Aug. 15, from Green Bay, according to the present plans, and will leave here again about 3 o'clock the following afternoon. Their entertainment during the day is in charge of R. A. Amundsen, county agent, who will take them to some of the leading farms and to the Outagamie County Holstein association picnic, where they are to engage in a stock judging contest with local boys.

The travelers will leave Powers, Mich., Wednesday, Aug. 15, at noon in automobiles. They will remain overnight in Brown county and leave Green Bay at 3:30 Thursday afternoon for Appleton, arriving here at 5:30. They are to be given a dinner by the chamber of commerce at 6:30 at a place to be designated later.

Sleeping quarters are to be provided for the night at the armory. The boys have their own coats and bedding. They will arise at 6 o'clock Friday morning, Aug. 17 and will have breakfast at Snider restaurant at 7:30.

Three hours from 8:30 to 11:30 will be spent visiting various Outagamie county dairy farms. Dinner will be provided at the Holstein picnic at the George Schaefer farm, town of Clayton at noon. The early afternoon will be spent at the picnic grounds and the start for Fond du Lac will be made about 3 o'clock so as to reach there at 5:30.

Most of Saturday will be spent at Fond du Lac. Wauwatosa will be reached that night and Sunday will be spent there and in Milwaukee. Waukesha will be the stopping place Sunday night and Monday will be spent there.

Only Financial Slump Holds Central Europe From Renewing Strife

Unless Berlin And Paris Make Settlement Present Generation Will See New Bloodshed, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Wireless Dispatch to the Post-Crescent

Copyright 1923 by the Post Pub. Co.
Aboard the S. S. Leviathan—Central Europe breathes an atmosphere of impending war. Grievances are abundant, hatreds are many, and the spirit of greed is unquenched. Only economic feebleness and the uncertain hold of present day governments prevents an outbreak of hostilities. Yet this very impotence may enable the peace treaties of all nations to gain the upper hand. At the moment, however, the talk is of ultimate war within ten or fifteen years. Mothers are already talking of distant America as the place to send their growing sons, and if the United States no longer will give asylum to the European peoples as of yore because of immigration laws, then South America will be the haven of the common people.

In Vienna, the gateway to southeastern Europe, one hears rumors of trouble from all sides. The Balkans are far from quiet. Central Europe is now on a small-scale armed to the teeth. The peace treaties that ended the European war designed to give autonomy to inspiring nations, but they could not have been intended to accomplish in five years the assimilation that must require a generation or more.

Nor can monarchies be overthrown and privileged classes be divested of their properties and interests without sowing the seed of counter-revolution. So there is Hungary now, controlled by the monarchists, making try faces at the little republics which have been carved out of former Hungarian territory. The spirit of revenge is growing in Hungary. To fortify themselves against the return of monarchists there has been formed in central Europe a military alliance of Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and Jugoslavia, known as the Little Entente. This triple alliance is supported and fostered by France, and lately Marshal Foch has visited three countries really on a military inspection trip. Poland is not a member of the Little Entente but is on most intimate terms with Rumania and would have been admitted into the Little Entente but for boundary disputes with Czechoslovakia.

SEEKS MILITARY SUPPORT
Hungary has been looking about for possible support in a military way in the event of serious trouble in the future and naturally has turned to Italy because of the latter's inevitable clash with Jugoslavia over Fiume. Hungary has been flirting with Germany and Great Britain because France openly has been helping the Little Entente.

The seeds of war are here. Were Hungary strong enough she would today be at war over her lost territory and only a desire to preserve what they received at the Paris peace conference impels the Little Entente to stick together as against Hungary. But the checks and balances of central Europe today can not be taken as an index of the future. They constitute a kind of political legendarium in which chancellors and premieres engage as a means of scaring each other into mutually better relations. Foreign Minister Benesch of Czechoslovakia, for instance, is at this very moment endeavoring to negotiate a commercial treaty with Hungary and conversations are going on in Vienna with that objective. Czechoslovakia is a peace loving country and is extending a great influence toward peace in Central Europe.

HUNGARY NEEDS LOAN
Hungary is in desperate need of a loan such as put Austria on her feet, but this cannot be obtained from the larger allied powers without the express consent of the Little Entente. So Czechoslovakia is using the loan proposals as a means of exerting an influence on Hungary to make the latter country more tractable. In other words, Hungary must give up the idea of bringing back the Hapsburgs and must accept the new order of things or else no help will be forthcoming. In fact, first of all, Hungary must disarm as provided by the peace treaties. Her neighbors suspect her good faith on this point.

Once Hungary has made a new commercial treaty with Czechoslovakia she will earn the support of the Little Entente for a foreign loan, but under conditions even more drastic than those imposed upon Austria in respect to the receiver-generalship and foreign supervision of her armament. Jugoslavia is having plenty of trouble amalgamating the Croats, the Slovenes, and the Serbs and recently she forfeited the support of foreign bankers by excessive expenditures on armament instead of reconstruction. Only recently the Blair group of American bankers decided not to lend any more money to Jugoslavia because it was reported the first five million dollars of what was to have been a fair sized loan was diverted for military purposes.

CAPITALISTS WATCH EUROPE
American capitalists are watching central Europe with intense interest. Their representatives are there constantly studying the situation. They seem optimistic about the future. J. P. Morgan and Company, for instance, are reliably reported to have indirectly obtained control of one of the largest land banks in Austria, though formal details have been made, probably for reasons of political delicacy in Austria where invasion of foreign capital could become a basis for political attacks by Socialists on the existing Austrian regime.

But the fact is that central Europe will some day be welded into an economic entity of great promise. American and British capital alone are available to help central Europe and irrespective of the Washington government's policy of supposed isolation, there is a good deal of moral support being given efforts of American financial interests to get a fair share of business in this part of the world.

The larger powers can make these small nations behave. Talk of war is based on the presumption that isolation will be a permanent policy and not a fad. This is not likely to continue, however, when once France and Great Britain reach an agreement. Paris and Berlin hold the keys to the world's peace, for with indifference on the part of both there will be bloodshed again in central Europe before another generation has grown up.

WORLD AEROPLANE RACE PLANNED FOR ST. LOUIS IN FALL

Contest Will Be Called "On to St. Louis" Race And Will Have Canadian Entries

By Associated Press
St. Louis—A "free-for-all" air race, from all parts of the country with St. Louis as its objective, is on the tentative program of the international air race to be held here October 1-3. The contest would be open to flying craft of all kinds, and the participants will be handicapped as to type and weight of machine, fuel consumed and distance covered.

The contest is to be called the "On to St. Louis" race, and it is hoped to have a number of entries from Canada should the National Aeronautics association approve. The tentative program also includes a dirigible race, in which the army, and possibly the navy, would be represented by exhibitions of the helicopter and glider, the radio-controlled plane, the reversible propeller, glider launched from a dirigible, aerial combats and bombing of a dummy port, and a race between a fast dirigible and an airplane.

These also would be a contest of airplane models built by boy scouts, the winner of which would receive a $5,000 silver trophy. The miniature planes would be driven by motors, operated by compressed air. Other proposed features include races for army training planes owned by civilians, for army and navy entries, light commercial planes, and for larger planes.

The Pulitzer Trophy race, which will be held in conjunction with the meet, is expected to take on an international character for the first time, as negotiations are under way to induce some of the noted European flyers to enter.

KING GEORGE MUST SAVE TO REFIT BOAT

Ruler Of British Isles Admits He Can't Afford To Re-build Racing Yacht

By Associated Press
London—King George's 30-year-old racing yacht, the Britannia, which he could not afford to replace with a more modern cutter, has just come off the ways for another season of racing. She has been re-coppered, overhauled, and equipped with new running gear.

King George has never hesitated to say that he could not afford to build another big yacht, and last year he even went so far as to tell yachting enthusiasts that the Britannia would have to remain idle until he saved up enough money to fit her out with new equipment.

He has decided to race the old craft this year chiefly for the purpose of reviving the sport, and for the benefit of spectators, rather than as the British under full sail, in a good breeze, is said to be a sight worth seeing.

Yachtsmen here say the days of racing big expensive vessels have passed forever. It has become such a costly sport, they say, that kings are no longer able to afford it, and even syndicates of millionaire sportsmen hesitate to undertake the huge outlay necessary.

300,000 FAMILIES MOVE EVERY YEAR IN CHICAGO
By Associated Press
Chicago—About 1,255,000 people change their dwelling places in this city every year, according to statistics compiled by the People's Gas, Light and Coke company. These totals are reached by figuring 44 members to a family, and the records show that something more than 300,000 families move annually.

The gas company claims it knows because it must turn off and turn on the gas in the dwellings as old tenants move out and new ones come in. The statistics show that more people move on May 1, Chicago's big moving day, than at all other times of the year combined. They show that while about 42 percent of Chicago's total population of over 2,500,000 moves yearly, from 25 to 27 per cent moves on May 1 and about 12 per cent on October 1, Chicago's other big moving day.

Girl Campers Too Occupied To Write Home

That "no news must be good news" is just now the consoling thought of most of the mothers of camp fire girls and girl scouts who are camping this week on Onaway island at Waipapa. Mrs. H. E. Griffin reported Wednesday morning that not a word had been received by her from the campers. The girls are believed to be having such an enjoyable time that all thoughts of home and fond parents is completely banished from their minds.

However if some of them could know of the fresh cakes their mothers have been waiting to send they would hurry an address along to insure a safe arrival of the pastry. One mother had to call Mrs. Griffin to find out where to send her cake. Others who have been worried as to the girls' safe ty have been calling for news of them.

GALA DECORATIONS ARE PLANNED FOR HOMECOMING WEEK

Carpenters Begin Work On Huge Stadium For Kaukauna Celebration

Kaukauna—A business meeting of the homecoming and pageant committee was held in the municipal building Monday evening. Bids were opened for the contract for decorating the city for the coming pageant and the Flagbears Decorating company of Menasha was engaged. Nothing will be left undone in the way of decorating the city for this day of days. The streets will be decorated from the north side depot to Wisconsin-ave. the entire length of Wisconsin-ave and Main-ave from the municipal building to Third-st. Both Second and Third-sts will be in gala attire. Carpenters are beginning work at the stadium which will cost several thousand dollars. Towers will be erected for lighting the stage. Grandstands also will be put up to accommodate about a thousand people. The stadium will seat about 10,000 people. Homecoming headquarters reports that letters are coming in from the former residents of Kaukauna saying they will be present. Kaukauna is preparing for the biggest week in its history.

The American legion will have charge of the first day of the pageant and will have one of the best programs on the list. In the morning a reception committee will meet all trains and transport the visitors to all parts of the city and in the afternoon a picnic will be held from 2 to 5 o'clock. After this there will be a banquet with the legion and city council participating. After the banquet the legion building will be dedicated. The speaker will be E. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac, state legion commander.

Tuesday, Aug. 26, a baseball game between Appleton and Kaukauna will be played at Kaukauna ball park. The pageant will begin at 5 o'clock in the evening. Howard Foreman Smith is directing and Donald Robertson will be the prophet. The places of business will be asked to be closed at noon. Wednesday is "oldtimers' day." All the homecomers will get together and talk over the times gone by. At 5 o'clock in the evening the second episode of the pageant will take place.

Thursday will be visiting day. The visitors will be taken around to all the mills and factories in the city. The third episode of the pageant in the evening will begin at the same time as the others. More than 1,200 invitations have been mailed to former residents. So many are expected here that people having extra rooms are asked to notify the pageant headquarters immediately. Former residents who come are to register at the headquarters. This will give them an opportunity to find friends and relatives that live in the city.

Do That Repair Job Now!

Putting off until next year repairs that should be made this fall is like stopping a clock to save time. Both time and decay wait for no man.

The high cost of delaying—delays that never pay—is a problem worthy of the consideration of every family in this community. If a better insulated and protected chicken coop or hog house will mean the saving of the lives of a dozen hens or a few hogs over the winter—the small sum invested in this improvement surely pays a good profit. Or again, the small cost of repairing that leaking implement shed will pay many dollars profit by adding to the life of the machinery.

Truly, then, this is the time of the year when it is real economy to repair, rebuild and reroof. Check further depreciation on your investments. Repair, Re-build—Re-roof NOW!—For a better community.

COULD DR. THACHER MAKE FAIRER OFFER THAN THIS?

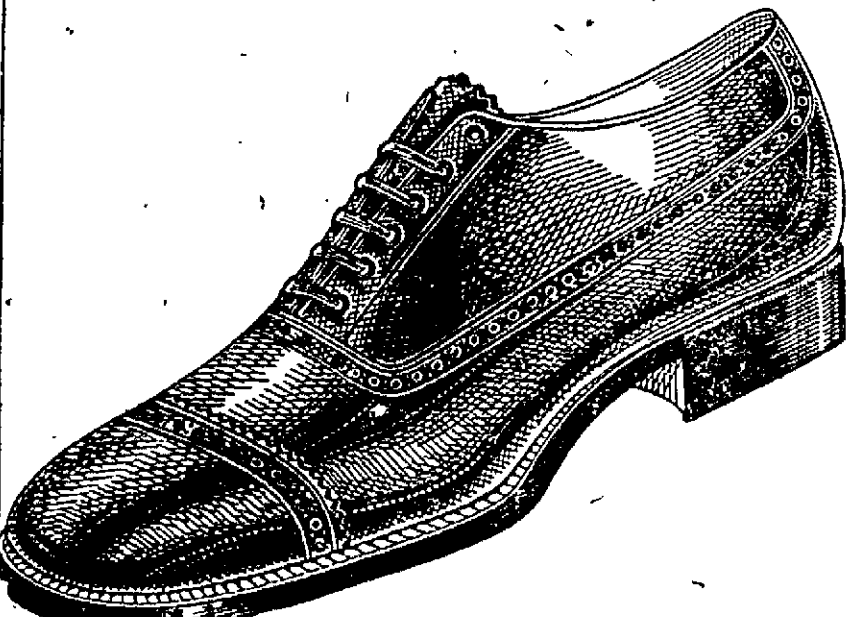

If Dr. Thacher had come to Appleton and offered to write a prescription that had been thoroughly tested in cases of indigestion, constipation, lack of nerve energy, impoverished and impure blood, rheumatism and a general rundown condition of the system, could anything be fairer than a standing guarantee to return your money unless you got complete satisfaction and relief?

This, in effect, is what the Dr. Thacher Laboratories have done in offering Dr. Thacher's celebrated prescription to those who are literally suffering from the need of a nourishing, strength-building tonic. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is an ideal summer tonic, because it is purely vegetable, pleasant to take and well suited to the delicate stomach. It has helped thousands of men, women and children to improve appetite, strengthen digestion, overcome constipation, tone the torpid liver and bowels and send purer and healthier blood coursing through the veins, bringing back that delightful feeling of health, strength and "pep."

Take a delicious tablespoonful after the next meal. Notice in less than two days how much better you can sleep and feel. Keep it up for a week or 10 days; the cost is only a trifle and you wouldn't trade your restored health and energy for any price. Sold under this standing guarantee in Appleton at The Union Pharmacy and Belling's Drug Store and in So. Kaukauna at The Kaukauna Drug Company.

Do That Repair Job Now!

Putting off until next year repairs that should be made this fall is like stopping a clock to save time. Both time and decay wait for no man.

The high cost of delaying—delays that never pay—is a problem worthy of the consideration of every family in this community. If a better insulated and protected chicken coop or hog house will mean the saving of the lives of a dozen hens or a few hogs over the winter—the small sum invested in this improvement surely pays a good profit. Or again, the small cost of repairing that leaking implement shed will pay many dollars profit by adding to the life of the machinery.

Truly, then, this is the time of the year when it is real economy to repair, rebuild and reroof. Check further depreciation on your investments. Repair, Re-build—Re-roof NOW!—For a better community.

REPAIR Re-build Reroof NOW!

— and further, by making it unnecessary to devote time and dollars next spring for the replacement of otherwise rusted parts.

Truly, then, this is the time of the year when it is real economy to repair, rebuild and reroof. Check further depreciation on your investments. Repair, Re-build—Re-roof NOW!—For a better community.

POLICE CARS ARE KEPT BUSY DURING PRECEDING MONTH

Vehicles Answer Many Calls—28 Arrests Recorded In Report

The two vehicles of the Appleton police department made more trips last month, even with one of them disabled for a time, than in the preceding month. That is to be seen from the monthly report of George T. Prim, chief of police.

During July the police touring car answered 67 calls in which it covered a total of 568 miles, as compared with 111 calls and 563 miles in June. Because of the damage to the touring car, the police ambulance was brought into play often. It made 43 trips for a total of 137.6 miles, as compared with 14 trips and 47.9 miles the preceding month.

Police activities were slightly in excess of those of the preceding month, judging from the number of arrests made. Of a total of 28 arrests, there were nine for exceeding the speed limits, six for drunkenness, two for violation of traffic rules, two for reckless driving, two for driving without an automobile license, one for driving while under the influence of liquor, one for forgery, one for burglary, one for passing bogus checks, one for incorrigibility and one for violation of the prohibition act.

The activities of Mrs. Mildred Gardner, policewoman, are described as follows: Dances supervised 3, band concerts attended 4, girls returned to parents in other cities 2, girls' parents interviewed 4, girls' cases under court jurisdiction 1, books returned to the library 2, cases under investigation 2, patrol of streets and parks.

PREPARE NEW FIRE MAP OF APPLETON

Fire-Insurance Agents Want To Know If House Numbering Is To Be Changed

Either change the street naming and house numbering system of Appleton at once or leave it alone for the next half dozen years at least, is the plea of fire insurance agents here who are waiting for the new fire map of the city which is being prepared by the Sanborn Map Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Every building in Appleton, with a description of its construction, street number and other information, will be shown on the map which probably will be divided into forty or more pages. At least six months will be required to complete the work and employment probably will be given to a number of men while the compilation is made. This map is invaluable to fire insurance agents because it shows where all their risks are located. It enables them to avoid getting too much insurance in any block and they can tell at a glance what the construction of the building is.

If there is a change in the street naming and building numbering system after the map is completed, the work will be practically worthless. Inasmuch as this map costs several thousand dollars to prepare, fire insurance agents are anxious to know whether the map will be of any use. The map was made in 1911 and is worthless now because of the large amount of new building in the last few years.

DR. AND MRS. REINECK HOME FROM WORLD TOUR

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Reineck have completed their journey around the world. They arrived in Appleton Tuesday afternoon, glad to be back in their home again. The tour which took them to all the show places on various continents covered about seven months, during which they had many interesting experiences and a wealth of delightful impressions. Some of the things they observed have been recounted in letters published from time to time in the Post-Crescent.

PRIM ASKS TO HAVE HEARING PUBLIC

Fire And Police Commission Will Hear Charges At 7:30 Tonight

The hearing of charges against Chief George T. Prim of the Appleton police department at 7:30 Wednesday evening will be public, as far as Chief Prim is concerned. It is entirely optional with the head of the police department, whether a hearing is to be public or private. It was said by A. G. Koch, chairman of the fire and police commission. When it was announced that it was indefinite whether the hearing was to be public, Chief Prim made a specific request for a public hearing.

The following letter written by Chief Prim on Monday was made public by Chairman Koch:

"To Albert G. Koch, Chairman of the Fire and Police Commission, and to the commission.
Gentlemen: I noticed in the paper Saturday evening that there was a question whether the hearing on the charges filed against me should be secret or public. I request that the hearing of these charges be public.

Yours respectfully,
George T. Prim,
Chief of Police.

The hearing relates to the accident during the visit of Gen. Henri J. E. Gouraud in which the police department's touring car was damaged when it tipped over on Mackville road.

COAL STRIKE TEST OF NEW PRESIDENT

can bring moral force and pressure to bear to an impelling degree.

STRIKE BRINGS HIM FAME

President Coolidge rose to national fame for the course he pursued in the police strike at Boston, while he was governor of his state. All of his friends, all of the politicians in Washington, and there are legions of them here already, are convinced that he will have his first test as president by the course he may pursue in the threatened walk-out in the anthracite fields.

President Coolidge is pondering that situation above all others at the present moment. He has tried to close his mind to everything of a political or economic nature during these days of the country's last tribute to its dead president, but it is inexorable and there is but a short time to study the coal problem before the date for closing down the mines is at hand.

Sam Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is fully conscious of the importance that President Coolidge attaches to the coal situation. That is why he has called on the new president two days in succession: why he has felt it necessary to place certain matters, certain data, before the new chief executive in the very midst of the national mourning. Organized labor is watching the new president with the keenness of a hawk. It, too, knows that Calvin Coolidge rode to popular favor as a "strikebreaker" and the "right to strike" is a jealously guarded principle among the labor leaders of the country.

OWN ACTS WILL BE JUDGED

President Coolidge knows that in the few short months that lie between him and his further destiny, he is to be judged by his own personal and executive acts. The politicians who have gathered here are as one in saying that the country is in mood today to hail, almost to canonize, a "strong man." If Calvin Coolidge is bold he may go a long way, they say; if he is over cautious he may be passed by. The very brevity of the months of opportunity that are before him call for sharp, incisive action, or they may go for naught.

COOLIDGE INSCRUTABLE

As for the president himself, he is as silent as ever. He neither asks nor gives a confidence. To most of his callers he is inscrutable. There are no tell-tale expressions upon his grave, unsmiling face. It was difficult for President Harding to stifle an emotion; it is just as difficult for President Coolidge to express one. Most of his interviews are extremely short, for he listens. He does not lend any sort of impetus or encouragement to the flow of conversation. He absorbs, but he does not give out. He has no anecdotes to tell; nothing to prolong the stay of his visitor beyond the period that he desires in which to state his mission or make his argument.

President Coolidge will not attempt to assemble the old Harding cabinet here Tuesday, August 14. He expects to be back from Marion on Saturday next, but will make no move until the beginning of the following week. At least eight of the ten members of the cabinet will be in Washington by the 14th. The new president is not exactly advised as yet to when Secretary Mellon, of the treasury department, and Davis, of the labor department, will be back from Europe. There will be nothing awkward, stiff, or intensely formal about this first meeting of the cabinet with the new president for he has sat with the members of the official family ever since Mr. Harding entered the White House.

THE
"TROUBLE SHOOTER"
TIMELY TIPS FOR NEW CAR OWNERS
By E. H. SCOTT

How to Drive Your New Car the First 1000 Miles

How often have you heard the remark "Oh, the car is just a piece of junk, after you have run it a few months, it rattles like an old tin can, pumps oil, and costs a small fortune in repair bills." I have heard that remark many many times during the years I have been in the automobile business. It is a remark frequently made to the unfortunate service manager, and is, in most cases, very unjust and not at all deserved by the car. It is quite useless to tell the owner that he is the man who is responsible for all this "grief." It is true, however, in 99 cases out of 100.

The life of your engine depends very largely on the way you drive and operate your car during the first 1,000 miles you run it. A fast pace will shorten the life of a motor just as surely as a fast and merry life will shorten the life of a man or woman.

The first 1,000 miles a car is run, is the most critical in its history, and your treatment of it during this time, will determine to a very large extent the amount of useful service you will get from it, and amount of money you will ultimately pay in repair and overhaul bills.

During the first 500 miles you run a new car, do not under any circumstances, exceed a speed of 20 miles an hour. During the following 500 miles, do not exceed a speed of 25 miles an hour. Do not allow the motor to race unnecessarily, or you will surely pay for it in repair bills. Do not allow the engine to labor on high gear. If it starts to slow down and labor, change down at once to a lower gear.

It is difficult for a man who has had no mechanical training to understand why, if a new engine appears to run nice and smoothly and with apparently plenty of power, this extreme care should be taken.

Perhaps this little illustration which you WILL be able to understand will make it plain to you. Suppose you were a man who had never taken any strenuous exercise, then all at once decided to take on a walk of 20 miles and determined to complete the distance at the rate of 6 miles an hour. If you ever completed that walk, how do you think you would feel at the end of it, and how do you think it would affect you. You know you would be stiff for a week or more after, and might even do your system serious injury.

Suppose, on the other hand, that you decided first to get into condition by taking a walk of 2 miles a day the following week, then 3 miles a day the next week, 4 miles a day the following week, and so on. By the time you have reached the point where you are going to perform the 20 mile stunt, you will be limbered up and able to do the walk with ease and without harming yourself.

Now can you see the point. Treat your car right by giving it a chance to limber up before you go after any speed records. Let the other fellow pass you if he wants to. Take it gently during this first 1,000 miles, then you will get two, perhaps three years of service from your car before it will be necessary to spend a dollar on an overhaul. Speed up and race your engine, and inside twelve months an expensive overhauling is necessary. The reason why such a large number of cars soon become regular customers at the repair shop is just because they were speeded up and never given a chance to limber up.

However, money spent in repair bills is not the only price you will have to pay for your speed. When you do not allow the engine to be limbered up slowly, and it is speeded and raced up when it is new, it is very often the cause of turning a perfectly good engine into a bad oil pumper. If the engine is speeded up when it is new, it sometimes causes the cylinder casting to warp or the cylinder walls become scored. When this happens the piston rings can't make a perfect oil seal of hold compression, with the result that oil is pumped up on top of the pistons and causes the spark plugs to foul very frequently. In addition to oiled up spark plugs, the cylinders will carbon up quickly and before long the engine starts to knock and overheat. If the valve seats or stems become warped, it is impossible for the valves to seat properly and a serious loss of power is the result.

Now, remember you can eliminate all the above troubles by giving the engine just half a chance to limber up. When you hear of a certain car of 1914 or 1915 vintage that is still going strong, you can just bet your last dollar that that car was carefully driven the first thousand miles, and all the other thousands of miles it has been driven since then.

Cars are being built better today than they have ever been built before. Better steels have been developed, production methods improved, and more accurate machinery to turn out the car parts etc., are in use in every plant. The cars that are being built today are far ahead of the cars of a few years ago, as the electric light is ahead of gas light.

Remember first, last and all the time, the service you are going to get from your car, will depend to a very large extent on the way you drive and the care you give it, in much the same way as your own health depends on the way you look after it.

IT WASN'T AN IMITATION

On a rainy day when umbrellas are all the style it is rather difficult to determine when to have it up and when to put it down. One lady had her umbrella up when it was absolutely unnecessary. She had been carrying it open along the street and in entering Pettibone's held the parasol over her head until she was half way down the aisle. She was reminded of her blunder by the snicker of a passerby, and immediately proceeded to put her "bumbershoot" in a more desirable position. L. H.

"I understand Lloyd George is to be in Milwaukee," said Secretary Hugh G. Corbett. "If that is the case I would like to have him see the Fox river valley also and be the guest of Appleton at least long enough so the people of Appleton can get a glimpse of the great English statesman."

Mr. Corbett is in correspondence with those who are informed concerning the premier's plans while in the United States in the hope that a visit can be arranged.

$240,000,000 SPENT ON ELECTRIC LINES IN YEAR

Chicago—Electric railways in the United States will spend the enormous sum of $240,000,000 for new equipment and plant facilities during 1923, according to a survey of expansion programs just announced by the Illinois Commission on Public Utilities.

This will be an addition to the large normal expenditures which must always be made for materials and supplies necessary to the continuous operation of the properties of city and interurban lines.

These proposed expenditures are about 60 per cent greater than those of 1922, the commission's statement says, the 1922 expenditures totalling $151,000,000.

THE RED REDMAYNES

By EDEN PHILPOTTS
Illustrated by R.W. SATTERFIELD

And now for Italy. It is true that in my early manhood I had suffered a sad accident at Naples, the secret of which was known to my mother and myself alone. I therefore entertained some grudge against her country; but the fact at no time lessened my love for the south.

CHAPTER XIX A LEGACY FOR PETER GANNS

It is at any time I entertained one shadow of regret in the execution of those who had traduced me and so earned their destruction. It was after we had dwelt for a season with Albert Redmayne beside Como. But Jenny swiftly laughed me out of these emotions.

We might have killed Albert a thousand times and left no sign—a fact that brings me to that part of my mental life most deplorable.

Nevertheless, though things difficult and dangerous, we had triumphantly achieved, before this task for a child we failed, and the reason for our collapse was not in Jenny but in me. Had I listened to my austere partner I should have waited only until she had searched for and found her uncle's will. This she did, and as the instrument proved entirely satisfactory, my duty was then to proceed about our business. Only an artist's fond pride intervened; nothing but my vanity, my consciousness of power to excel, upset the rightful climax. We were, indeed, both artists, but how incomparably the greater she! Had she won her way with me, we would be living now to enjoy the fruits of our accomplishment.

But though she did not win her way, yet in defeat, her final glorious deed was to intercept the death intended for me, that I might still live. Loyal to the last, she sacrificed herself, forgetting, in that supreme moment, how life for her without her could possess no shadow of compensation.

My wife's deeper sanity and clearer vision always inclined her to distrust our American acquaintance, Peter Ganns.

Ganns is a great man on his own plane. But, though he is a greedy creature who dies his grave with his knife and fork, though his habit of drenching himself with powdered tobacco, instead of smoking like a gentleman, is disgusting, yet I have nothing but admiration for him. His little plot—to treat me to a dose of my own physic and present a forgery of "Robert Redmayne" in the evening dusk—was altogether admirable. The thing came in a manner so sudden and unexpected that I failed of a perfect riposte.

It was Jenny, of course, who had assisted me die Marco's grave on Granite and who shared my disappointment when we found that Brendon had escaped my revolver.

While Jenny related her suffering and made appeal to her listener's overmastering devotion, I left the house and Brendon saw me go. To get a boat was the work of ten minutes. A black beard was all the disguise I used, save that I had left my coat in the boat and appeared before Redmayne in shirt sleeves.

With trembling accents I related to Accunta, who of course knew me not, that Rossi was taken fatally ill and might hardly hope to last an hour. It was enough. I returned to the boat and in three minutes Albert joined me and offered me untold gold to row as I had never rowed before. A hundred and fifty yards from shore I directed him to pass into the bow of the boat, explaining that I should so make greater speed. As he passed me, the little pole-axe fell. He suffered nothing and in five minutes more, with heavy stones fastened to feet and arms, he sank beneath Como. The pole-axe followed. Its work completed.

Then I rowed ashore swiftly, returned the boat to the beach unobserved and hid my disguise in my pocket and strolled to a familiar inn. I stopped at this albergo for a considerable period, that a sufficient alibi might be established. Then the crash came. I returned home to find nothing—to find like Lucifer, to find all lost, to hold my dead wife in my arms and know that, without her, life was ended for me.

In seemingly splendid fashion she passed and it shall not be recorded that the man this glorious woman loved made an end of his days with her distinction and proximity. To die on the gallows was to do what many others have done; to be condemned to no such ignominy. Ganns understood me well enough for that.

Let not my legacy to Peter Ganns be forgotten, or that I appoint Mark Brendon executor and residuary legatee.

I think there is nothing more to say.

quadrante" "At the end of the game we may see the winner." But not always, for sometimes the game is drawn and honors are easy. I have played a drawn game with Peter Ganns and he will not pretend a victory, or withhold the first applause where it belongs. He knows that, even if we were equals, the woman was greater than either of us.

Farewell.
Giuseppe Doria.

Ten days after Peter Ganns had read this narrative and its sequel at his snug home outside Boston, there awaited him, upon his breakfast table, a little parcel from England. Something amazing challenged his astonished eyes. There came a letter from Mark Brendon also, which repeated information already familiar to Peter through the news papers; but added other facts for him alone.

New Scotland Yard, October 20, 1921.
My Dear Peter Ganns: You will have heard of Pendeau's confession and message to you, but you may not have read full details as they concern you personally. I enclose his gift, and it is safe to bet that neither you nor any other man henceforth possess anything more remarkable. He made a will in prison and the law decides that I inherit his personal estate; but you will not be surprised to learn that I have handed it over to the police orphanage of my country and yours in equal proportions.

The facts are these. As the day approached for his execution, extraordinary precautions were taken, but Pendeau behaved with utmost restraint, gave no trouble and made no threat.

I may mention that the body of Robert Redmayne was found where he buried it, but the tides have delected the beach gravels of Brendon's grave and search there has revealed nothing.

Upon his last night but one, Pendeau retired as usual and apparently slept for some hours with the bedclothes up to his face. A warder sat on each side of him and a light was burning. Suddenly he gave a sigh and held out his hand to the man on his right.

"See that goes to Peter Ganns— it is my legacy," he said. "And remember that Mark Brendon is my heir." He then put a small object into the warder's hand. At the same time he apparently suffered a tremendous physical convulsion, uttered one groan and leaped up into a sitting position. From this he fell forward unconscious. One attendant supported him and the other ran for the prison surgeon. But Pendeau was already dead—poisoned with cyanide of potassium.

You will remember two facts which might have thrown light upon his secret. The first was his accident in Italy as a youth; the second your constant interest in a peculiar, inhuman quality of his expression which you were never able to understand. Both are now explained. He had, of course, a secret receptacle upon his person beyond human knowledge or power of discovery, for he says that only his mother knew of his accident. That accident was the loss of an eye. Behind an eye of glass that took its place had lain concealed, until he required it, the capsule of poison found crushed within his mouth after death.

What the published statement of this knave has done for me you will guess. I am leaving the detective services and have found other occupation. One can only seek to live down my awful experience. Next year my work will bring me to America and, when that happens, I shall be very glad to see you again should you permit me to do so—not that we may speak of the past, with all its facility and bitterness for me, but that I may see all is well with you in your days of retirement, honor and ease. Until then I subscribe myself, your admirer and faithful friend.

Mark Brendon

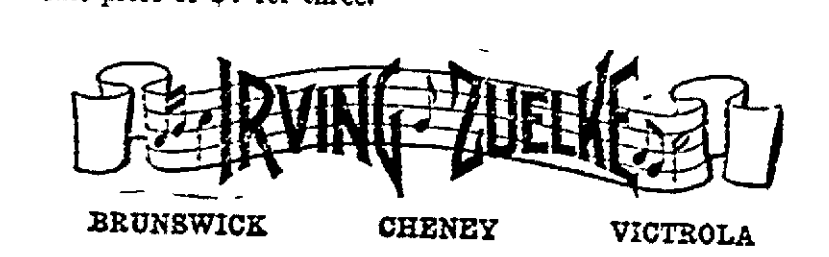

Peter opened his parcel. It contained an eye made of glass and very exquisitely fashioned to imitate reality. Its prevailing dark ness had prevented the truth from appearing, and yet, perfect though it was in luster and pigment, the false thing had given Pendeau's expression a quality that never failed to disturb Peter.

Mr. Ganns turned over the little object that had so often met his in quiring gaze.

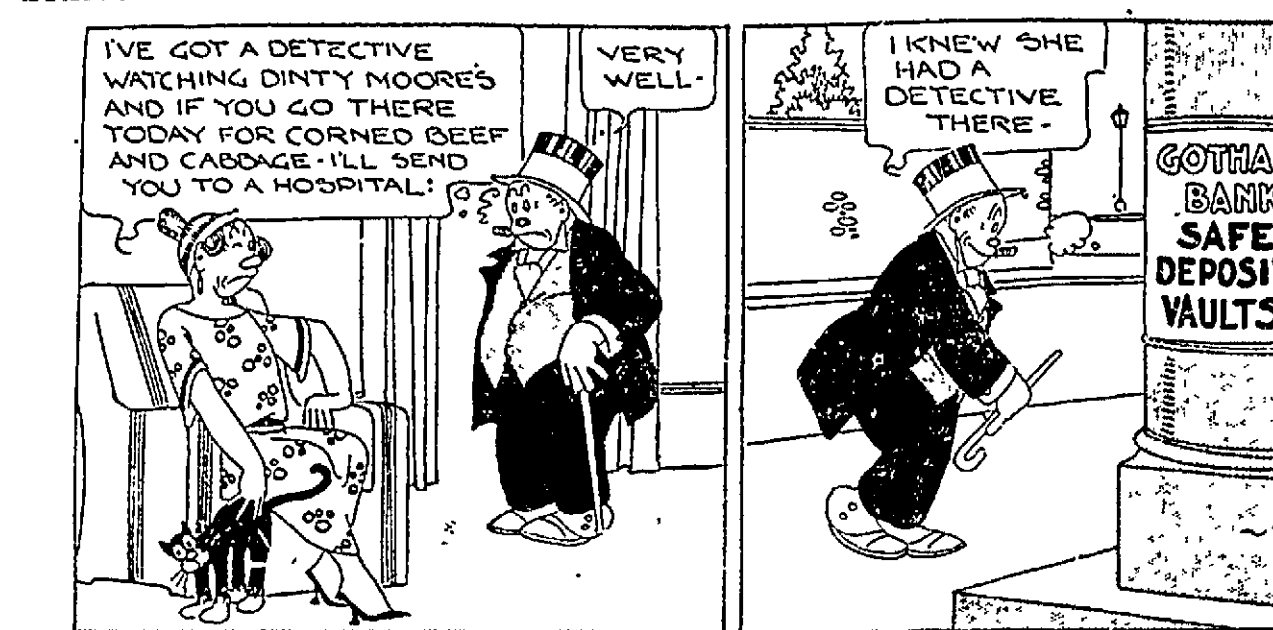

"A rare crook," he said aloud "but he is right; his wife was greater than either of us. If he'd listened to her and not his own vanity both could be alive and flourishing yet."

A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

RECIPES

She Holds Record As Commuter

Denver, Colo.—As a long distance commuter, Ida Kruse Mac Farlane of this city holds the record.

She uses up a 1000-mile commutation ticket every time she gets on the train, and consumes a day and a night getting to her day's work.

Mrs. Mac Farlane is really a traveling pedagogue, who simultaneously teaches in three cities—Denver, Kansas City and Omaha.

With headquarters here, where she is professor of English at the University of Denver, she makes the trip from this city and return, and Omaha and return each month, meeting classes in each city and laying out courses of study.

CLASSES FOR WOMEN

"It began by my organizing classes for women whose school days were ended but whose desire for education was not," she says.

"These women came in from the suburbs and the surrounding country and overflowed the capacity of the class room. So I decided I could serve them better by laying aside certain days and go to them. The distance grew and the demands upon my time multiplied until commuting to Kansas City and Omaha resulted."

Mrs. Mac Farlane has had as many as a thousand pupils in her class at Kansas City and almost that many in Omaha and Denver. All of her pupils have reached the age of maturity. Many are mothers and a surprisingly large number are grandmothers.

BELATED EDUCATION

"They are women whose struggle for existence in the past has made impossible the education they desired," she explains. "There was no time or money for self-improvement in the early days."

"Now wheat, oil, corn and the advance in the value of land have all contributed to give them the ease they earned, and they feel they will enjoy it more with keener appreciation."

"Many of the women are actuated by the praiseworthy ambition to keep up with their children."

"I have women of 70 in my classes," Mrs. Mac Farlane concludes. "It is most interesting to watch the age limit advance. I expect to enroll women of 80 next year."

"Education is the most beautiful thing in life, except religion, and there is no age in either."

Buying Furs In August Helps
Keep Mind Off Hottest Month

BY MARIAN HALE

New York—August, besides being the hottest month of the 12, is the one which custom and the fur dealers have consecrated to the rite of buying the fur coat.

And, indeed, perhaps one of the best ways in which to forget the heat is to ramble around in a fur store, viewing garments designed for zero weather. But don't try on too many in a single summer's day!

The thought alone of a new fur coat is usually exciting enough to take the normal woman's mind off the temperature. This season's models are particularly distracting.

They wrap, drape, slink or become perky at your command, and they reach heights of loveliness never before attained.

In general, the straight silhouette is adhered to, though there are plenty of circular and flaring models for those who prefer. Flounces, godets and pleating mark a model as essentially of this season. Cape styles are rarely seen except in the very elaborate wraps for evening.

The mandarin sleeve prevails. Hudson seal and caracul are the most popular medium-priced furs. These are usually trimmed with a contrasting fur such as squirrel, lynx, fitch and fox.

Squirrel, with less of a reputation for service than seal, but extremely becoming, is seen in combination with pointed fox, dyed squirrel and Australian opossum.

In the short sport coats, bordered racoon is conspicuous, and so are leopard, ocelot and nutria.

Among the most gorgeous wraps, ermine, Persian lamb, mink and sable are treated as they never have been before. Linings of velvet and supple duvetyne are new this season. There is a tendency in the plainer coats to keep the lining the color of the fur, but often it is beautifully embroidered in self color, or sometimes a band of figured or brocaded silk is added about the hem.

The average length of this season's fur coat is 48 inches, but those for elaborate wear are 50, while those for evening are sometimes 52. The sport models come shorter, from 45 to 48, and the jackets may vary as much as 12 inches. It is very important, in a short fur coat to find the proper length, and this is regulated entirely by the stature of the wearer.

Fur dealers are looking forward to a fat year and are stressing the luxurious models, with price tags that run into four figures.

Shower earrings, they tell me, cannot be made fast enough to meet the demand for them. They come in stones of every color seen this summer, and that is more than any one person can think of in one day. And in the matter of length there is no rule or limit. They may be as long as the taste of the wearer and incidentally the length of her neck will permit. Racing with the shower earrings for popularity are the large hoop earrings that are having a decided revival. They are worn loosely as no earring ever was before, with sport suits. Did you know you could play golf or tennis just as well with earrings flapping against your neck? Well, you can, and you have to do it to look modern and chic.

The smartest string of beads for summer wear has shrunk up into a "choker." It doesn't really choke or even crowd your chin like the diamond and pearl dog collars, but just loosely around the line of the collar bone, looking like something that takes life lightly and comfortably even in warm weather and strenuous days. It comes in all sorts and colors of beads—coral, amethyst, jet, amber, jade, black and white effects with beads alone, or with beads connected by filigree links of silver, and in the much-loved cut crystal. Matched with shower earrings and bracelets of the same beads finished with a little shower like the earrings, it is particularly effective.

Wear Any Jewels You Want But Wear Enough

You can wear almost anything you want this summer, in any combination you happen to think of, if you just wear enough ornamentation. Sweet simplicity for warm weather attire is all very well but you must wear beads and bracelets and earrings with it or you will look like a mid-Victorian maid and no one will expect you to speak the language of this decade and century—and so you'll be lonesome and never suspect it is all for the lack of a bauble or two.

The vogue for bracelets and earrings is increasing, the jewelers tell me. They say people are wearing more of them now than they did in the spring, and I didn't suppose that was possible. They are dependent upon, together with a string of beads, to furnish the colorful note in the summer costume, not only of the young girl, but of her grandmother as well—that is if they don't wear blue shoes.

MORE BRACELETS THAN EVER

Bracelets change very little. They merely increase in number. If they do that much more they'll be spilling over on the right arm and clinging up to the right shoulder as well as to the left where they have about as right now. The narrow circlet of square cut emeralds, sapphires, diamonds, and rubies—are as much in demand now as they were early in the season and following after them come less expensive but still charming bracelets in jet, green gold, and painted ivory.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO LESLIE PRES-COTT, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I am going to deposit this letter from Sally Atherton in this little secret drawer and when I am inclined to think my lot hard and when I find myself rebelling against my little annoyances, I am going to take it out and read it.

Strange, isn't it, that most women will face a great calamity when it comes into their lives just as bravely as Sally? I also believe that most of them will worry and fret about the little nagging pin-pricks of life as I do.

Most of us rebel daily against the little encroachments which the sordid business of living makes upon husband and wife and their love. These little everyday martyrdoms should be gilded by love with the shining gold of forbearance.

Lovers, as you know dear little Marquise, are never partners in the true sense of the word and most young people are greatly surprised and shocked when they find that marriage is a business pure and simple.

I am going tomorrow to see Alice off and mother and dad are coming back with me.

I am going to make mother explain what she said in her last letter to me. Why should young married people have worries at the beginning of their married lives? Why should that knit their affections so closely together?

I don't believe I shall need that explanation so much as I would have, had I not received Sally's letter. Sometimes I almost find it in my heart to envy Sally. She has made herself so indispensable to her husband.

I do not know what I would do if I were placed in a similar position. You probably will not understand this, my "gay little Marquise," for if I read your letters right, you were always just a care-free bit of thistle-down that was content to be the secret sweetheart of a king.

Today, my dear, no woman wants to be dependent on any man's whim even though he thinks the whim a love impulse. I shall teach my daughters something stable by which they will be able to support themselves if necessary.

Mother will have to tell me something, however, when she comes. She will have to tell me how I can make myself a greater help to Jack.

He has seemed so tired lately. He has not wanted to leave the house at night and has hardly spoken to me the evening.

I hate to tell him I am going to New York as it means I'll have to ask him for more money. I feel like a beggar as he told me it was his money and he gave me that poor little ten dollars with the lordly gesture of a prince bestowing alms on a mendicant.

Dad has got to give me a thousand dollars for Sally. I am sure he will for he always liked her and I believe that her letter has done his daughter more than that much good.

TOMORROW: The same letter continued—Unexpected generosity.

SISTER
KITCHENMERINGUE
BY SISTER MARY

There is no mystic incantation to pronounce over meringue making. The result may be ethereal, but the procedure is of the earth earthy—by main force and elbow grease.

Eggs for a meringue MUST be beaten with a whisk. A Dover beater or a churn beater can not whip the amount of air into them necessary to make a perfect meringue economically. One egg well beaten will "go" farther than three half beaten. And the eggs MUST be fresh.

The temperature of the whites has little effect on their beating properties, but the whites must be unclouded. A tiny bit of the yolk prevents them from beating well. If when breaking the egg and separating the whites from the yolk the yolk is broken and some does penetrate the white this must be removed. To do this dampen a clean soft cloth and dip into the yolk. Do this until every trace of yolk is removed. The yolk clings to the cloth.

The beating of an egg is a delightful example of "physical change" without "chemical change." Chemical change of course takes place as soon as sugar is added, but the action of air on the albumen causes no "chemical change."

SIMPLE MERINGUE

This is used for pie and pudding frostings:

One egg white, 1 tablespoon cold water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, tablespoons sugar.

Separate white from yolk carefully. Put white on a platter. Add water and salt and beat with a whisk till stiff and dry. Beat in sugar and use as desired. Bake in a moderately hot oven for six minutes. This amount of meringue will cover a pie or pudding eight inches in diameter.

SPECIAL MERINGUE

Two eggs (whites), 1 tablespoon water, 1/2 cup powdered sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Put eggs, sugar and water in a deep platter or shallow bowl. Beat with a whisk until stiff enough to hold its shape when pulled up with a beater. Add lemon juice slowly, beating constantly. Bake ten minutes in a slow oven. This makes a heavy meringue.

Either of these meringues can be spread evenly piped with a pastry tube or puffed with a fork for baking.

UNBLEACHED FROGS

The unbleached frock which presents a perfectly straight silhouette is frequently seen at the smartest restaurants.

Seasoning Not Confined Only
To Salt, Pepper

The people of ancient days used more seasoning in their food preparations than we do, and some of their seasonings are not appealing to our sense of taste—assafoetida, for instance. The supposition is that because they had no refrigeration, meats spoiled readily and some of the very highly flavored ingredients were added to cover up the taste.

But let us consider some of the seasonings besides salt and pepper, which the housewife should have on her shelves, and thus add much variety, as to flavor, in her daily menus. First of all vegetables comes the onion, and its relations, the shallot, garlic, chives and leeks.

There is nothing which so improves some salads, meats and sauces as garlic. But it must be used with discretion, and that means one of the several sections found in a garlic. One of these sections, which should be peeled, cut into halves and rubbed over the bowl in which a salad is served will give just that unusual and delicious flavor so often lacking.

Celery comes next, perhaps, and the root, stalk, tender leaves and seed are all used for seasoning. The celery root, or "knob celery," is used in soups and salads or when creamed as a vegetable.

PARSLEY USEFUL

Then comes parsley, which should be used quite as much as a seasoning as for a garnish. When parsley is plentiful in the summer it may be dried and kept for winter use. If dipped in boiling water and then in cold water before drying the color is retained.

The leaf of the laurel or bay tree is an excellent aromatic seasoning, but if used too plentifully overpowers the other flavors. For the ordinary amount of meat or sauces, a "bit" of bay leaf is sufficient and by "bit" is meant a small piece not more than a quarter of an inch long.

Whole pepper, or peppercorns, are much better to use in cooking than ground pepper. From three or four to half a teaspoon is the usual quantity to be used. A slight flavor of nutmeg in cream soups or chicken dishes is best obtained by cooking a "blade" of whole mace in the stock, or sealing it with the milk. A "blade" of mace is not much larger than a "pin," about one inch long.

CLOVES HELP

Whole cloves, never more than one or two, are an improvement to tomato sauce and soup. It should be remembered that these spices ought to be cooked only for a short time in the sauce or with the meat, as too long a cooking will develop a strong flavor.

Frying onion in the fat before adding the liquid gives a much better flavor to a sauce or gravy.

LEATHER FLOWERS

Large leather flowers are used effectively to trim the most fashionable hats. Leather hats, too, are stylish.

SUBDUED EFFECTS

In the collections of autumn gowns one notices that subtle colorings and more subdued effects have replaced the riotous tones of the summer.

FOND DU LAC RED SOX INVADE APPLETON SUNDAY

Tailenders Expect To Come Back In Game With Papermakers

Elliot Definitely Dropped From Sylvester's Lineup, But Is Aply Replaced By Newly Risen Star

SUNDAY'S SCHEDULE
FOND DU LAC AT APPLETON.
Marquette at Menasha.
Kaukauna at Oshkosh.
Green Bay at Sheboygan.

Having defeated the league leaders last Sunday, Sylvester's Papermakers are scheduled to do their stuff against the tailender Red Sox of Fond du Lac next Sunday. The Fond du Lac club narrowly escaped pling up on the rocks of financial ruin two weeks ago but were helped back on their feet by a booster game engineered by Owner Harris, and are now trying to improve their standing in an attempt to arouse greater interest in the national pastime in their home town. Continual changes in the Red Sox lineup were intended to make a pep team of the Harris outfit, but instead of accomplishing that purpose, the shifts resulted in weakening the club. Now, however, they appear to be settled down, and are expecting to hit a better stride, making their beginning in Sunday's contest here.

Elliot Replaced
"Rowdy" Elliot, the prospective third baseman whom Sylvester had been trying to sign for the past three weeks, did not show up for last Sunday's battle at Sheboygan, and "Dutch" therefore takes it for granted that he is through with the Appleton club. "Elliot was a good player, but the victory at Sheboygan showed that he was not absolutely essential to the team. Wenzel, who had been hiding his light under a bushel as a bench warmer before that win over the league leaders, blossomed out with two baggers, a single, and a successful sacrifice in four times up. If he can keep up that pace, or even approximate it, he will be doing better than Elliot had done in the games in which he assisted the Papermakers.

Ed Lums had considerable trouble with his lineup for the Sheboygan game. In fact, he was unable to run the bases himself, and Sylvester was forced to send in substitutes for this purpose. As there are no extra men on the team, this made it rather difficult for the men who had to do double duty, but they showed themselves willing and able to cope with the extra burden. However, Sylvester considers the risky to enter any contest at this critical time in the pennant race, to run the danger of having one of his men crippled during the game without any possibility of replacing him. Therefore he is scouting around for a good utility man, and has opened negotiations with several loose-enders who are reputed to be worthy to join the Papermakers.

No changes have been made in the Fond du Lac lineup thus far this week, and Appleton is satisfied to play the game with its regular personnel.

Kink's o' the Links

A player and his opponent are approaching to the green. The opponent's masher falls dead and rolls to the cup. The flag stick is in the way and the ball strikes it, lodging on the edge of the cup, keeping it from falling into the hole. Can the opponent take the flag away, allowing the ball to fall into the cup? Is the situation considered as holding out or is there a penalty attached for striking the pin in the first place? It is best to have the flagstick removed upon approaching the putting green and carried to a safe distance.

"Battle Of Ages" When Jack Meets "Wild Bull"

BY BOB DORMAN
New York—When an irresistible force meets an irresistible force, what is going to happen?

That is the interesting problem that probably will be settled soon, when Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, meets Luis Firpo, who, in the short space of one year, has fought himself into the front rank of the contenders for Jack's title.

Both men are practically the same age.

Both are essentially the same type of fighter.

A rushing attack that crushes everything in its way, a terrific punching ability that breaks down everything that opposes it, a natural fighting instinct that takes the place of systematic training, a joy in combat and a determined determination that has lost no object, the training down of the luck less mortal tested into the same ring with them—these are the outstanding characteristics of the two fighters whom fate has seen fit to make contemporaries.

DEMPSEY MORE SKILLFUL
Dempsey has the more skill. In the early days of his career he was the better boxer of the two. He is also a shade faster in the ring.

His more extensive experience in the ring, the confidence that comes with the knowledge that he is the world's champion, all combine to give him an advantage that would be hard for the "Bull of the Pampas" to overcome.

RICKARD POSTPONES LEONARD-WHITE BOUT

New York—Tex Rickard practically gave up hope on Tuesday of holding the Leonard-White bout before Leonard boxes Dundee on Sept. 5 and now is figuring on Sept. 25 as a date for the bout.

Rickard will have the Polo grounds at his disposal on that date. Previously Rickard has had a McTigue-Tunney bout in mind for that date, but apparently has sidetracked it in favor of the lightweight encounter. This may force McTigue and Tunney to wait until the indoor season to settle their difficulties.

Billy Gibson, Leonard's manager, signed the contract for the Dundee match on Tuesday and bound his champion to make the lightweight limit of 135 pounds.

JANESVILLE RACE CLASSIC NOW OPEN

Janesville—With eighty-four entries for the first day's races, the tenth annual harness meeting of "the Lexington of the north" will start here Wednesday afternoon. Wednesday calls for a 2:10 trot, 2:15 pace, 2:30 trot and a 3 year old trot. Purse total $3,200 for the day and $7,200 for the week. This is the first meeting of the Wisconsin grand circuit. Monroes, Madison, Milwaukee and Elkhorn following in order. A number of grand circuit winners will start here. Dr. Stone, Burlington, Wis., starter at Toledo, Columbus and Kalamazoo on the grand circuit, will handle the races here. There is a total of 138 entries for the week. Friday's program has been postponed until Saturday on account of the funeral of the late President Harding. A paddock has been provided, the first in Wisconsin, to speed up delays between heats.

ORGANIZATION FORMED TO COMBAT DRAINAGE PLANS

McGregor, Ia.—The Mississippi valley conference on aquatic resources in session here went on record as unalterably opposed to the draining of bottom lands along the upper Mississippi, valuable as breeding places for fish and game. A permanent organization was formed by the election of Dr. A. T. Rasmussen, LaCrosse, as president and W. F. Mickel of McGregor as secretary.

In match play there is no penalty for striking the flagstick while it is in the hole, or striking it after your opponent or his caddy have removed it, but if you strike it after you or your caddy has taken it out, you lose the hole. If your ball lodges against the flagstick you must remove the pin to see if the ball will fall in. Should it fall into the hole you save a stroke. If it stays on the green you must putt again. If in medal play the ball played from within twenty yards of the pin strikes the flagstick, in or out of the hole, it will cost you two strokes.

How should a ball be played that is lying in water on the putting green? If your ball is lying in casual water or is lying between your ball and the hole, you may putt it as it lies or lift it and place it behind the water, within two club lengths of where it lay, or in a position, not nearer the hole, that will enable you to putt without interference.

REAL PUGILISTIC CLASSIC

It is not for his peculiar mentality. Luis Angel Firpo feels that he is destined to become the world's heavyweight champion. That through the possession of the title he is to become a rich man. That was the vision that came to him as he climbed the Andes in South America as he set forth to his first fight.

That feeling has never left him throughout his career in the ring.

It is the secret of the quiet but irresistible way he fights in the ring.

It is the secret of the never-changing expression that carries his face into a granite mask, a mask unaffected by pain or joy, success or failure.

The crashing impact of the mighty Willard's ponderous fist brought no change.

The fight of the fallen giant, brought to his knees by the power of Firpo's own driving fist, left that expression unchanged.

It is the same brooding look that Napoleon, "The Man of Destiny," wore.

To Firpo, Dempsey is nothing more than the last obstacle in the way of the fulfillment of that vision of the battle that he had when he climbed the Andes a few short years ago.

If the Dempsey-Firpo fight was the battle of a century, the Dempsey-Firpo fight should be "the battle of the ages."

GREEN BAY GOLFER WINS OPENER, 5-4 AT MADISON MATCH

Frances Hadfield And Bernice Wall Also Victorious In Eliminations

Madison—Miss Virginia Gittens of Green Bay, champion, eliminated Mrs. George Blakney of Milwaukee, 5 and 4, in the first round of match play in the annual championship tournament of the Wisconsin Women's Golf association, being played over the Maple Bluff course. Miss Frances Hadfield of Milwaukee eliminated Mrs. Harry Landauer, also of Milwaukee, 5 and 4.

Mrs. Cleophas of Beloit eliminated Miss Bessie Greene of Milwaukee, 4 and 2. Mrs. Stanley Stone eliminated Mrs. Kessenich of Madison, 2 and 1. Mrs. A. Harris of Janesville eliminated Mrs. George Hamilton of Two Rivers, 4 and 3. Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh eliminated Mrs. W. L. Evans, Green Bay, 7 and 6, and Ruth Landauer of Milwaukee eliminated Miss Adele Ludlow of Madison, 7 and 6.

GOOD GOLF IMPOSSIBLE
The rain which continued throughout the morning, varying from a light drizzle to heavy showers, made good golf impossible. The low places in the fairways splashed water as the players worked their way around the course, and the greens were correspondingly heavy, resulting in much difficulty in putting.

Many of the players in the second round defaulted during the morning or postponed their matches in hope of better weather in the afternoon. All cards in the championship flights were high, none of the players being able to get any great distance.

Johnson has been pitching in the American league since 1907. He has always been on a losing team, never with a great club. As a result, in order to win, he invariably was forced to press his pitching to the limit.

When a star pitcher begins to go back the blame is invariably laid to an ailing arm. Listen to what Johnson has to say on this point:

"Of course, I am not as good as I was 10 to 15 years ago. Age tells in baseball quicker than any other sport."

FALTERS IN SPOTS
The long driving Miss Gittens found the going bad in spots but was sufficiently far ahead to go through her match without much trouble.

Miss Wall showed to advantage in her match, her tee shots and iron play being much superior to her opponents.

Mrs. Boyce of Madison defeated Mrs. L. Bourneque of Milwaukee, 3 and 2.

BAIT CASTING

By M. J. V. Fose

"A TACKLE BOOK"

That's the name of the handiest little nifty in the line of a tackle "kit" that any bait caster will want to carry on a fishing trip because he can keep his "kit" down, knives, hooks, spoons, snags, line, knife, etc., therein and have plenty of room for a few added lures that he may want to collect later on. Then too, there's no fumbling with trays, tangle of hooks and that "tinnny" sound every time one wants to find a piece of tackle quickly.

The little book I refer to is made of leather or imitation leather with a good strong backing of canvas and is 10 or 12 inches in length, four or five inches in width. There's a flap that closes the book but there are usually sold without "snaps" that is glove fasteners, but one can easily have two or three put on the flap at some automobile trimming shop for a few cents.

The pockets are accordion style, and when fishing can be opened up, laid on a boat seat and then one has everything handy and in sight. When the fishing has been finished, your tackle is all together just close it up, fasten the snaps and stick the book into your pocket and be on your way.

A little book of this sort will serve many times its price in a season's fishing, preventing the loss of lures. How many times have you, or some friend left, a lure or some other piece of tackle lying in a boat—I have had this happen to me many times before purchasing one of these "little tackle books" and especially when coming out shore on a dark night when one cannot find half of the tackle he has spread around the boat sides and seats while fishing.

A book of this caliber can be purchased at any office supply store for a sum that is far below the price of a "tin" tackle box with a half dozen trays and a "Jonah" to lug around. The average angler can easily stow away enough baits, a couple reels, lines to last for months in one of the books and still carry his complete outfit in his coat pocket.

St. Kitts, Britain's most remote island, with a population of 30 souls, is cut off for about eight months by stormy seas.

Caddie Tells Golfers How Not To Lose Ball

Thirteen-year-old Alex Danko is the star caddie of the Cleveland Municipal Golf Links at Highland Park, Warrensville, O. It is not the star of the combined links of the country.

For under the most trying conditions—darkness and deeper rough—he has lost but two golf balls so far this season.

All this may sound unreasonable for Alex, considering the green players he has to deal with and on a public links, where the average golfer plays the rough from tee to green.

But Alex is a regular hawk for white strawberries.

"Caddying is one thing and golfing is another," says Alex, "to my way of thinking. And the two together will make the game. All you need is a sense of observation, good eyesight and common judgement."

"The ordinary golfer, after he makes a bad tee shot, will lose his self-control and all his poise, and fail to watch the ball."

"Watch the ball until it stops rolling. Sometimes it may seem to stop but will take a roll and a wild shot."

"Mark the ball with a big stationary object on the direct line of flight, then mark it as to depth in the rough."

"Don't zigzag to the ball."

"Drop the bag within the radius of the ball and don't wander off somewhere else."

"The whole thing is very simple. If you keep your mind on the ball and not on the snakes or butterflies, or your opponent's ball, you won't have any trouble finding it."

Little Alex is no bigger than the bag itself and can play a better game with the leather than most players can with the sticks.

Johnson Blames Legs, Not Arms, For Slump

Washington—Is Walter Johnson going back?

Walter admits it himself, so there can be no doubt about it.

At times, Johnson looks as good as ever, but his pitching lacks the old consistency that made him the greatest pitcher of his day.

Johnson has been pitching in the American league since 1907. He has always been on a losing team, never with a great club.

As a result, in order to win, he invariably was forced to press his pitching to the limit.

When a star pitcher begins to go back the blame is invariably laid to an ailing arm. Listen to what Johnson has to say on this point:

"Of course, I am not as good as I was 10 to 15 years ago. Age tells in baseball quicker than any other sport."

Rival Second Basemen Lead Base Stealing

Chicago—It is a rather interesting fact that the two leading base stealers in the major leagues should be second basemen and both members of Chicago clubs.

Eddie Collins, the veteran second sacker of the White Sox, is showing the way in the American league in the matter of thefts, while Grant-ham, a recruit, playing his first season as a regular, leads the National league in base running.

Incidentally it might be mentioned that the two players to press Collins and Grant-ham for the base-stealing honors are outfielders. Johnny Mostil of the Sox is hot on the trail of Collins, while Max Carey of Pittsburgh is close on the heels of Grant-ham.

For years Carey has been the premier base runner of the National league and he hopes to eventually overtake Grant-ham.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Henry Sullivan, the Lowell, Mass., fish, evidently is quite some swimmer. He splashed his way across the English channel in 27 hours and some minutes. This is quite a feat. Only two other men—Burgess and Capt. Webb have ever accomplished the stunt. Sullivan will get more than glory for his efforts as he pulls down a thousand pound prize hung up by a British paper. In other words he floated into close to $5,000 for a little over a day's work. Evidently, it pays to know how to swim.

Dinny Gearin, the former Milwaukee Brewer got off on the right foot in his initial start as a big league. Gearin joined the Giants recently and McGraw sent him into the box against the Reds along about the seventh inning in the second game of the twin bill. Dinny showed his class under fire and it probably won't be long now before he gets a chance to start a game. The way things look now, Gearin sure is in line for a slice of world series coin.

Babe Ruth is winning many a game for the Yanks this year and the victories are not all the result of home run clouts. The other day, the New York Americans were trailing the Browns a couple of runs, and defeat loomed. Then came the eighth inning rally. The Huguenin filled the bases and came Ruth. He spanked out a double, clearing the bases and putting the Yanks in the lead.

Boss Chubb and his Beloit Friars don't seem to be able to keep peace on the diamond this season. They even have trouble in games outside the mid-west loop. The Friars forfeited an exhibition game in Chicago to the Pyrots. The Beloit club was leading 3 to 0, but Chubb took the air on a decision against his squad and, when the umpire refused to do a right-

STATE LEAGUE NOTES

Old Man Hard Luck continues to rub elbows with Fondy. Faris, who was developing into a first class pitcher, suffered a fractured leg in an exhibition game against the Minneapolis Giants, a colored team. Steen has been switched over to the bag. He didn't look so bad against the Lynchmen.

Bill Lathrop's batting average came down a peg as a result of the diamond tilt in the Chairmaking village. The Appleton mound artist didn't get a single in five times to the plate. However, Bill did his share towards winning the game as he held the Leblenns scoreless during the game.

With the addition of Muench, Al Cissa has been moved to center field in the Falls battle front, taking the place of Connie Reik, who is out of the game with an injured hand. The Woodenware tribe as they now size up have a team which stands a good chance to pull down the bacon.

Serio, another new man on the Oshkosh club, performed well at short-stop in his initial appearance as a State leaguer. Although he had one miscue in the field, he made a number of classy stops. Serio also got to Old Hank Schultz, the Marinette-Memphie slasher for a clean blow.

Hank Goede, who in the days of old was a pretty classy infielder, was pressed into service by Eddie Stumpf for a game against the Kaukauna club. The Kaukauna club is pretty well crippled as both Graby and Art Bues are doing hospital duty on the bench due to injured legs.

Wenzel, an Appleton second string man was pressed into service by Manager Sylvester in the game at Sheboygan and again he came through with flying colors.

Blowers, including a pair of twin sackers in four times up besides taking care of everything in the right pasture.

Mike Cavanaugh, Marquette manager, was pressed into service by Fond du Lac in Sunday's game at the "Bay". The veteran can still hit 'em on the nose and his trusty war club accounted for two of the hits credited to the Red Sox aggregation. He also performed capably in the right garden.

The Neenah-Menasha club has added a new face to its battle front as Stoneman, who formerly caught for Jimmy Dodge's Red Sox is now doing duty behind the bat. Stoneman has all the ear marks of a classy baserunner and, according to records, he wields a nasty war club at bat.

M'MILLAN JOINS GRID CLASS AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind.—More than 115 eridron mentors had arrived on Tuesday to attend K. K. Rockne's football coaches' course, which commenced last week.

Bo McMillan, all-American quarterback, reached Notre Dame from Waco, Tex., accompanied by Frank Bridges, Baylor college coach. McMillan is coaching Texas A. and M.

Rockne's curriculum includes an intensive drill in the science of the forward pass and shift plays. Four hours of the day are devoted to lectures and four hours to field practice, in which Rockne's theory, uniform and demonstrates his theory, assisted by Notre Dame regulars.

Luque Takes Crack At Outfielder Of Giants As Reds Are Beaten, 6-2

Philadelphia Keeps Up Winning Streak In Third Victory Out Of Four Starts With 7 To 5 Score

By Associated Press
Chicago—Fisticuffs varied the monotony of the New York National's winning streak in Cincinnati Tuesday when Adolfo Luque, the Red's Cuban pitcher, knocked out of the box, attacked Casey Stengel when the Giant outfielder twitted him for his generosity. Luque won his game with Stengel, 1 to 0, and the Giants beat the Reds, 6 to 2. It was their fifth victory of the Cincinnati series.

The Giants left for St. Louis with a lead of seven and a half games.

In Pittsburgh, the Philadelphia Nationals continued their winning streak by defeating the Pirates, 7 to 5, and making it three out of four for their series there. Williams made a homer.

St. Louis Nationals hit Barnes and Benton of the Braves and won the final game of the series with Boston, 7 to 5. Stock and Flack lined out a homer apiece.

A thrilling battle in which eight pitchers took part was staged at the Yankee stadium. The St. Louis Americans, by using five hurlers to the Yanks three, won in large numbers 12 to 2. The St. Louis team made six runs off Shaw and six off Jones. Mays was put in at the end. Ken Williams, Witt, and Schliebner made homers.

The Cleveland Americans inundated the Senators under a storm of runs without the aid of a single homer and won, 22 to 6. Mitchell, Friday and Potter were called to the mound for the Washington team but were unable to stem the flood.

The Philadelphia Americans trimmed the White Sox in Philadelphia, 9 to 2. The Chicago team scored their only runs in the first inning and though they made 11 hits to the Athletics 12, were unable to push across another run.

Brooklyn, Chicago, Detroit, and Boston games were called because of rain.

Tuesday was a good day for the Williams family of the major league. "Cy" Williams of the Phillies mashed out his twenty-ninth homer of the season and Ken Williams of the St. Louis Americans bagged his twentieth.

Babe Ruth of the New York Americans is the first major leaguer to reach the century mark in scoring. Ruth not only scored his 100th run but crossed the plate a second time, thereby registering 101 times.

Rain checks will be good for admittance at the Cub's park for the first time in five years. The postponement of the final game between Brooklyn and Chicago was the first contest started at the park which has not progressed far enough to "save the money" and get into the records. A heavy rain came down at the conclusion of the fourth inning and it was impossible to continue play.

Sammy Hale and Clarence Galloway were the batting stars of the Philadelphia Americans in the second straight victory over Chicago. Sammy maling a triple, two singles, and a sacrifice, while Clarence had four singles in his collection.

Luque, Cincinnati ace, took a second whirl at the New York Nationals in an attempt to stop their winning streak, but he was wild and the league leaders hit him freely, making a clean sweep of the five game series. Watson, after pitching great ball for New York, showed signs of weakening in the eleventh and was yanked by Manager McGraw, who didn't want to take any chances.

Philadelphia is making a strong bid to move out of the National league cellar. Cy Williams' homer with two men on was a considerable factor in making it the third victory over Pittsburgh in four games.

August Felix, fly chaser of the Boston Nationals, cracked out four hits including two doubles in five trips to the plate, but his club lost to St. Louis which pounded Jess Barnes and Benton hard and chalked up the only victory of the series for Manager Ricker's club.

Manager Gleason of the Chicago Americans juggled his batting order in the second game against Philadelphia and although the hitting commission worked well, it was not good enough to overcome a lead which was piled up against them when Mike Cvergros weakened in the third inning. Frank Brower, star first baseman of the Cleveland Americans, tied the season's record of six hits in six times at bat. Jack Fournier of Brooklyn accomplished the feat some time ago.

Babe Ruth of the New York Americans is the first major leaguer to reach the century mark in scoring. Ruth not only scored his 100th run but crossed the plate a second time, thereby registering 101 times.

"Big Bill" Is Praised For Fine Manner

Apparently "Big Bill" Lathrop is making a hit not only with the supporters of the team of his adoption, but also with his rivals of the diamond. In Sunday's contest with Sheboygan, he showed himself to be a gentleman as well as one of the star pitchers of the McGilgan circuit, winning the acclaim even of the beaten Chiefs.

The following article by the Sheboygan sport scribe expresses the views of the fans of that city:

"All the Sheboygan fans were attracted by the unusually gentlemanly and pleasant manner of Bill Lathrop. It is customary for Bill to act the gentleman, but he won many friends for his fine demeanor Sunday. While he objected occasionally to Umpire Janssen's decisions, he did so with grace, and sometimes when the fans thought he was criticizing, he was saying, 'How're things, old top?' He has a big, broad smile, too, that wins the fans over. And Bill shows he is master of the situation at all times."

Two teams have never met before, but as both of them have played Hortonville on several occasions a fair estimate of their strength may be made by the comparison of their results in those games. Fremont met defeat once at the hands of Klineker's Hortonville Independents, but defeated that aggregation in the return game, while Janhke's sluggers humbled their strong rivals twice in succession. Janhke's clan has played 12 games this season, of which 9 were turned into victories, and three were total losses.

at the actions of the coacher, heaved the ball to the plate. It went wide of its mark, and rolled almost to the stand.

As the ball got away from the catcher the runner on third crossed the plate, while the batsman who hit the ball reached second base.

What is the proper ruling on such a play?

THE INTERPRETATION
The coacher had no right to run in the direction of the plate. In so doing, he left the lines of the coacher's box. He has no right to do that.

His dash to the plate confused the runner, and made him throw to that base instead of first. Because of the coacher's actions he interfered with and prevented the legitimate play, and the runner was scored from third should be called out because of the coacher's interference.
